we have something for every team

What is the Atlantic Coast Power League?

The Atlantic Coast Power League (ACPL) is an association comprised of elite girls' junior Olympic volleyball teams along the Atlantic coast. The goal of the association is to provide the members with the most competitive volleyball atmosphere. This will increase the talent and make the area more competitive with other regions. Each club must request membership into the association. The top level teams (national teams) per age group will be considered for membership.

What is the Commonwealth League?

The Commonwealth League (CL) is an association comprised of girls' junior Olympic volleyball teams in the state of Virginia or other bordering states. The goal of the association is to provide the members with a series of competitive tournaments. This will give the members the opportunity to gain court experience. Each club must request membership into the association. All levels, national, zonal, regional, of teams per age group will be considered for membership.
